00:46:13 Dianne Armstrong (she/her): I'm assuming the benefit is that others can't access what you upload in your private version?
00:46:48 Maura Thomas (she/her): I just read the FAQs in ChatGPT, @Dianne Armstrong (she/her), and it doesn't specifically say that.

01:07:06 synthiasmith: ...So... why use an avatar instead of recording a bunch of short clips?
01:07:58 LeAnn Pashina: Synthia - I would suggest reaching out to Jill and learn ways to use it and see if it would help you save time, she is helpful and how speakers can use as well
01:08:03 Maura Thomas (she/her): The answer for me is that I hate recording myself. It's just a hassle between showering, makeup, hair, lighting, background, scripting, blah blah blah.
01:08:20 KymberliSpeight.com: @synthiasmith to save time. You can give it a script and it will create the video. So you also don't have to be in a studio to get the better quality. You can also change clothes. More than what you own perhaps. LOL!

02:08:16 Paula's OtterPilot: Some key takeaways from the meeting include:
- Chat GPT and other AI tools can be useful for generating ideas and content, but humans still need to evaluate and edit the output
- Be careful about copyright and privacy when uploading your own content to AI tools
- Tools like Canva make it easy to transform text, images, and videos into different formats like social media posts, blogs, and videos
- Prompts are important - the more specific and knowledgeable the prompt, the better the response from AI will be
- Consider creating your own closed AI system to have more control over your content and how it's used
